Finding Opportunities and Filling Business Needs

On November 1, Plymouth State hosted their Fall Career Fair, welcoming 60 organizations from New Hampshire and around New England to campus to help students explore the many possibilities available to them. Current students and alumni are able to connect twice yearly with representatives of exciting employment opportunities, internships, and graduate programs.

Habitat, Politics, and Tourism

Concern for a rare bird that summers in the White Mountains brought together businesses and non-profits with students and faculty to create the multi-year, multi-phased “Forest to Forest” cluster project. The Bicknell’s Thrush habits and habitat choices created opportunities for students to gain collaborative and hands-on experience in national and international political, environmental, economic, and social issues.

An exhibit at the Museum of the White Mountains, Jan. 30-Feb. 18, 2018, will pull all the science, art, philosophy, political science, economics, and education cluster projects on this rare bird together for the public.

We look forward to seeing you at the Legislators Brunch at PSU on Dec. 4 where you may learn more about these topics and other PSU endeavors!
