Peer Revision Protocol
Writer’s Concern-Based Discussion

Phase 1:
Greet your partner, and thank him/her in advance for working with you today.

My partner’s name is: ____________________________________________________________

Next, do some preparation for your conference on your own:

The point/main idea of my story is:
_______________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________

A concern/worry about my writing is:
_______________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________

I’d like to know:
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________

Phase 2:
Next, decide who will read first.
The first reader will share what (s)he wrote in Phase 1. Write your partner’s concern below:

My partner’s concern/worry about his/her writing is:
_______________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________

Then the first reader will read aloud his/her story.
As one partner reads aloud, the other partner listens and takes notes (questions or thoughts and ideas) below, based on the concern:

What I want my partner to know about his/her concern: (at least 2 ideas)
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________

Name:
Per:
Date:

This needs to be COMPLETED & TURNED IN to the PASS IN BIN by the end of class…for a grade!
Phase 3:
Next, the listening partner shares his/her notes. The writer records his/her partner’s notes below:

What my partner wanted me to know about my concern: (at least 2 ideas)

___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________

Phase 4:
Next, the other writer shares. Repeat Phases 2 & 3.

Phase 5:
Thank your partner. Ask any clarifying questions if you have them. The last step is individually completed.

Reflect on the feedback you received; what will you do with the feedback? What does this make you think about your writing? Are you left wondering about anything? How do you feel about your concern now?

___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________

___________________________________________________________________________

___________________________________________________________________________

___________________________________________________________________________

___________________________________________________________________________

___________________________________________________________________________