Just Between Friends (p.4-6)
Helping children understand what it takes to be a good friend.

Bystander: A Portrait in Apathy (p.4)
Empowering students to stop deflecting the blame, and to take on some of themselves, enabling them to make much needed changes to their behavior and the behavior around them.

Alex’s Story (p.13)
Helping middle school and high school students to think critically about decisions and how drugs, tobacco, and alcohol are marketed to them.

Let Your Star Shine (p.14)
Encouraging young people to accept themselves and others by promoting self-esteem.

TIGER’s Four-Paw Approach
Real experiences of children and young adults through life by professional actors through music, dance and drama.

Our classroom material is aligned to Common Core Standards and ACA (American School Counselor Association) National Standards. All of TIGER’s engaging and interactive programs and presentations are designed as fun, interactive, and age-appropriate activities and lessons, as we strive to create an engaging and memorable learning experience.

TIGER’s is a partner of Common Core English Language Arts Standards. The program’s curriculum includes writing, reading, critical thinking, creativity, and problem solving. The way TIGER’s is unique is its specific four-part story. This way kids learn to care for acause, create strategies to solve real-world problems and are engaged in a true-to-life story that shows how one person can make a difference.

Don’t miss “Alex’s Story” this season! Limited bookings available.

TIGER (Theatre Integrating Guidance, Education, and Responsibility) is a powerful and existing collaboration between the Integrated Arts, School Psychology and Counselor Education Graduate Programs at Plymouth State University. A professional educational theatre company, TIGER helps children, young adults, schools, parents, and communities deal positively with bullying and other social issues and concerns facing youth in schools today.

Based on the anonymous writings and stories of school children and youth, TIGER performances incorporate live actors, theatre, dance, and music to engage school audiences from K-12 in a 45-minute assembly-length production. Following in the tradition of PSU’s award-winning Theatre Collaborative (TIGER (Theatre Integrating Guidance, Education, and Responsibility)), TIGER is a professional educational theatre company, TIGER helps children, young adults, schools, parents, and communities deal positively with bullying and other social issues and concerns facing youth in schools today.

In addition to performances, TIGER also offers professional development (taught by Plymouth State University faculty) for teachers and parents tied to the Common Core, as well as engaging student workshops in individual classrooms following performances. Our workshops seek to promote 21st-century learning skills such as creativity, critical thinking, collaboration, and communication.

TIGER has performed at the state level for the New Hampshire Department of Education, regionally for the New England Theatre Conference (NETC), and nationally for the American Alliance for Theatre Education (AATE). Internationally, TIGER has also performed for the National Drama Conference in Durham, England, the International Festival of Children’s Theatre (ASSITEJ) in Cairo, Egypt, and at the 2013 IDEA World Congress in Paris, France.
